Dear Sir/Madam,

We are the office bearers of Hong Kong Institute of Acoustics (HKIOA) established in Hong Kong since 1993. We have reserved all rights in the name and logo, which was first expressed in material in 1993.

It has come to our attention that your sales brochure/publication (顾问服务介绍书) has quoted a certificate indicating that your company is a member of the "Hong Kong Institute of Acoustics" (HKIOA or the Institute, thereafter for simplicity). However, we have never issued such a certificate/document, and our internal record indicates that your company is not a member of HKIOA. We are afraid that this may lead to a misunderstanding among the public that your company is an HKIOA member.

To avoid public misunderstanding, we would appreciate it if you could look into this matter and desist from using this certificate for any purposes. Your prompt action and response to our request by close of business on 7th July 2017 is highly appreciated. If we do not hear from you by then, we would have no choice but to reserve the right to take legal action to prevent any unauthorized use of the certificate.

We look forward to hearing from you soon.

Yours faithfully,

A handwritten signature in blue ink, consisting of a large, stylized 'G' followed by several loops and a final flourish.
